

CARICA GAME

PLAY WITH TRADITION

In the recent past, our grandparents and parents didn't have the resources we now have.

There were no mobile phones, Facebook, Instagram... they spent their free time playing with each other and playing with imagination.

One of those games was Carica's. Little was needed to play this game and the fun was too much.

It was played especially by the boys who often came home with dirty pants and carried a brave mother's grated.

What does it take to play it?
- At least 2 players; - Each player has his/her own carica (he must have some brand to know it's his own);

-A place to create the route.
The route is drawn on the ground.

Game description: -After the route is drawn on the ground, each player puts his carica on the starting line.

-One at a time, with your finger, pushing your carica forward.

-If the carica leaves the route has to return to the beginning or to the last place before that exit.

-Beat the player who gets to the finish line first.
